ARTIST PROFILE - TARIK AHLIP

Parramatta Artists' Studio

Tarik Ahlip is a Sydney-based artist with a background in Architecture; his practice centres on the possibility that poetics can drive epistemic change. Recently completed works have explored the optics and properties of water as analogous with human intelligence, and therefore intrinsically instructive. His practice is mainly sculptural, with an emphasis on casting processes, and has ranged into public art, community-based projects, and the written word.

"My tenancies at Parramatta Artists' Studios have proven to be very definitive moments in my practice. My first tenancy in 2014 allowed me the time and space to question how I worked, a question that led me from painting to sculpture. Similarly, my current tenancy at Rydalmere is witnessing a shift to larger-scale sculptural works and film. The studios and their community is and has been a tremendously supportive context for my work in Greater Sydney, where I also live."
